IRS 1997 NATIONWIDE TAX FORUM

ADMISSION FEE

In order to meet administrative costs accruing to the management firm contracted to provide logistical and other support to the Forums, a modest admission fee will be charged for this year's shows.

The basic fee for this year's shows is $25. Half of last year's fee. Additionally, there will be some significant modifications. We recognize the many small businesses who combine the Forums with a family vacation and therefore, spouses and children under the age of 18 are admitted free. Similarly, businesses need pay the full admissions fee for only the first attendee. The second attendee from the same business pays $20 and all subsequent members of the business or organization pay a $10 fee. Obviously with admission fees at this low level, the costs of administering refunds would be prohibitive, and therefore there will be no refunds.

Details concerning the admission fee, and how it applies to your situation, can be obtained by calling Public Affairs International at 301-445-8100.

HOTELS

The Renaissance Harborplace Hotel in Baltimore is located in the heart of the famous Baltimore Inner Harbor. An overpass walkway connects the hotel directly to the Inner Harbor and its many restaurants, shops and other attractions. In addition the hotel itself is co-located with a Gallery containing numerous shops and restaurants.

The Hyatt Regency Chicago on the Riverwalk offers easy access to exciting downtown Chicago. Shops, restaurants and entertainment of all types are readily available and within walking distance. The "Sox's" and the "Cubbies" are in town if you are so inclined as are the world famous Chicago Museums.

The Anaheim Marriott is the location for our traditional Labor Day "family" show, and what better location than the original fun time place for kids of all ages...Disney Land! Of course, easy access to

Electronic Tax Administration

Los Angeles and the beaches are also an option. We fully expect the world famous southern California weather to cooperate.

The Radisson Hotel in Atlanta has just completed a 19 million dollar restoration and is the site for our final show of the season. During our site selection visit this year we were amazed at the change from our visit in 1995. Everything from the carpet to the wall paper and furniture is new. The hotel is the equal of any we have stayed in over the course of the past four years. All of fabulous Atlanta is within easy reach.

THE SEMINARS

The IRS is committed to providing the most complete up to date information possible on topics of interest to the tax professional community. To that end we have reviewed past seminars, solicited suggestions from the community, and recruited as speakers the most expert IRS personnel available. The number of IRS executives speaking at, or being available for questions, at this year's Forums will be the largest of any shows ever presented in the history of the Forums. We are determined to offer to the tax professional community a range of professionally interesting and informative topics, the breath and depth of which exceeds anything we have done before. The IRS has made a commitment to the tax professional community and this year's Forums are geared toward fulfilling that commitment.

Professional Credit

Attendance at these seminars will qualify for Continuing Professional Education (CPE) Credits for Enrolled Agents. Other professional groups should consult with their respective licensing agencies regarding acceptability of credit. Each seminar qualifies for one CPE credit. Because of concurrent seminars, the maximum number of CPE credits available to be earned is ten.

Registered with the National Association of State Boards of Accountancy as a sponsor of continuing professional education on the National Registry of CPE Sponsors. State boards of accountancy have final authority on the acceptance of individual courses. Complaints regarding registered sponsors may be addressed to NASBA, 380 Lexington Avenue, New York, NY 10168-0002, 212-490-3868.
